API

Last week, the API market was generally stable, and the prices of most products fluctuated and consolidated. The overall market demand was general, and some mainstream product factories still maintained their prices and arranged orders for delivery, mainly florfenicol and oxytetracycline hydrochloride; in addition, the market prices of doxycycline and tilmicosin phosphate have been reduced recently, and the remaining varieties have remained basically stable. We will continue to pay attention to market changes in the future.

FOOD ADDITIVE

Last week, in the sweetener series of the food additive sector, the domestic transaction price of sucralose stabilized to around USD23-24/KG and will remain stable in the short term. The prices of acesulfame potassium and aspartame remained stable, and the shipments were normal. In terms of nutritional enhancer products, creatine monohydrate was driven by market conditions, and the current market price was around USD3.9-4.3/KG, with delivery scheduled until late January. The price of L-carnitine series products rose. For preservative products, the prices of sodium benzoate, benzoic acid, potassium sorbate and sorbic acid remained stable, and the delivery of each manufacturer was also normal. We will continue to pay close attention to market trends and the delivery of each manufacturer so as to adjust relevant strategies in a timely manner.

Minerals

Last week, the domestic factories' external quotations for calcium hydrogen phosphate were stable, and the price was still at a high level. The tight delivery situation of the factories has eased, but the overall market activity is not high. Most of the end users who have no spot demand are mainly waiting and watching, and will pay attention to the factory's signing of orders in the future. In the short term, phosphoric acid products are running smoothly.
